DIVERS GO DOWN TO INSPECT F-4 FOR LAST TIME

Hull is Now So Patched That Neither Sand Nor Marine Life Can Get to Inside

Salvage work on the F-4 came to an end today. With only two small buoys to mark the position the sunken submarine will lie off the mouth of the channel for the next several weeks, with possibly an occasional inspection by one of the divers of the submarine flotilla to note the condition of the boat. There will be no more work until the steel lifting pontoons arrive from Mare Island.

This morning the last of the regular diving was accomplished. Nielsen and Dreilishak going down to place a small canvas mat over the one remaining rent in the hull. The submarine is now so protected as to keep out marine life and prevent sand from drifting into the boat.

On the return of the diving party to the Maryland the order was given to get all the diving gear aboard the ship, so that there will be no unnecessary delays when sailing orders arrive. The recompression chamber will be hoisted aboard as soon as the ship has been hoisted and the torpedo air flasks, which were used to form the compressed air supply for the divers, will be put back where they belong.

It has been definitely announced that the three deep-sea diving experts, Chief Gunner's Mate Dreilishak, Crilly and Nielsen, will return to the Coast with the cruiser. It was thought at one time that they might be left behind, but there seems to be no immediate need of their services.

On the dock the gear used in the salvage work is being sorted and put into shape. Men from the Alert and the submarines are busy reeling up what is left of the big wire cables, in anticipation of future use for it. The short ends will be collected, taken out to sea and dumped.

No orders have been received for the Maryland as yet, but there seems to be a general impression that the cruiser will get away Friday or Saturday.

Several army officers probably will go to the Coast on the Maryland. It was stated this morning on board ship that there was room for 10.

WHAT TO DO WHEN FOOD FERMENTS AND SOURS

Take a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia in a fourth of a glass of water and you will obtain complete relief in from one to five minutes. Do not take strong drugs, nor soda, as pure soda liberates carbonic acid gas and may cause stomach dilatation, which is most difficult to cure. Bisurated Magnesia is sold by all druggists in powder or tablet form.—Adv.

EXERCISE BENEFICIAL TO WOMEN

Strength Often May be Gained by Judicious Activity on Part of the Sick.

The woman suffering from the ills of her sex often loses ambition and will not exert herself in the least, her muscles become flabby, her circulation bad and nerves wrecked. Another woman suffering from the same ills will lay out for herself a system of convalescent exercises of deep breathing even before leaving her bed. If the woman will but write Dr. Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., she can get free medical advice in such cases, also a 1000-page book with advice on Hygiene. How to care for the sick. Sex problems. Diseases of women, etc., all for 3 dimes or 30 cents in stamps to pay for mailing.

Sick women—thousands of them—have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a woman's tonic that has a singleness of purpose in curing the disease of women only. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and banishes pain. The dull, sunken eye with its dark circles which comes of suffering is banished—so too is the shallow, sunken cheek, the shrunken form—when this "Prescription" is used. It is a temperance remedy because made without alcohol—of native roots and herbs. Women who suffer should not wait till a breakdown causes prostration. If you are anxious to correct the derangement of the delicate feminine organs, to overcome irritability and nervousness, waste no time, but get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form this very day at any medicine dealers and tomorrow you are on the highway to health and happiness. Write for free 136-page book on diseases of women.

Vessels Not Delayed by Rain. Heavy rains along the Hamakua coast of Hawaii have not delayed the movement of sugar to Hilo for transshipment to both coasts of the mainland. Officers in the steamer Mauna Kea, which returned from the Big Island today, say a larger quantity of product than usual is awaiting the arrival of overseas freight carriers. The Mauna Kea met with light southwesterly winds in leaving Hilo. The vessel brought a small freight consisting of 200 sacks of sugar, a quantity of empties and 121 packages of supplies. Purser Phillips reported to San Francisco. The time between Japan and San Francisco is 12 days direct, whereas it requires 16 days if Honolulu is included. The five big steamers, Mongolia, Manchuria, China, Korea and Siberia, will omit Honolulu. The Nile and Persia are scheduled to call, but as they both fly the British flag no passengers can be picked up at Honolulu, in accordance with the coastwise shipping law.

PACIFIC MAIL TO QUIT SOON, IS THE RUMOR

According to the present indications no American flag will be seen in the Orient on a vessel after the last Pacific Mail boat leaves Yokohama in December, save on army transports and other government vessels or stray tramps. The only other American flag sailing westward of the 15th meridian will be on the little schooner Florence Ward, which carries food to the cable operators on Midway Island every six weeks.

"The line of demarcation will be clear," said Acting Secretary Taylor of the Promotion Committee upon receipt of Mr. Wood's letter today. "The navy officials can go ahead and make Pearl Harbor the greatest naval base under the American flag but that flag will be a novelty in the western Pacific."

Secretary Wood offers no suggestion in his letter but simply states the facts of the situation. It is understood that the Pacific Mail directors met in New York, May 26, but adjourned without announcing their plans.

Other Lines May Expand.

Whether the other steamship companies will put on new boats or not is a question, thinks Mr. Taylor. Travel on the Matson, the Oceanic and the Canadian-Australian lines will of course be accentuated. It is also possible that other boats, such as the Great Northern which called at Honolulu on her maiden trip in February and now running up and down the coast, will establish a triangular schedule to include Honolulu, San Francisco and the ports of the north coast. It is still further possible that the passenger boats plying between San Francisco and New York via the canal will see opportunities sufficient to induce the owners to put Honolulu on the map.

The possibility of the Matson company taking over one of the Pacific Mail boats in event of that company quitting business has caused considerable comment among shipping men. The question was asked, and answered along the Pacific coast a great many times before the steamer Wilhelm departed for the islands, according to the officers and passengers who arrived here today.

Shipping men argue that more passenger tonnage will be required to handle the business, should the Pacific Mail make good its oft-repeated threat and lay up its liners. Who, they say, will be better prepared or equipped to take care of the traffic than the Matson line?

In this connection the steamer China has been mentioned as a possibility. It is said the China, while a suitable vessel for Pacific Mail requirements, would prove unprofitable in the island trade because of its small space for freight. A steamer of the type of the Siberia or Korea, it is believed, would be far more suitable. Either vessel would need many alterations to make it suitable to engage in passenger and freight business between Hawaii and the mainland.

Another loss to Honolulu should the Pacific Mail give up business permanently will be in freight from the Orient. The entire freighting from the Far East to Hawaii will be in the hands of the T. K. K. boats. The Japanese liners are loaded to the scuppers on every sailing under the present condition with the Pacific Mail as a competitor. The small amount of freight handled by the Persia and the Nile will not materially affect the tremendous demands for bottoms, it is feared.

Cannot possibly be found exactly alike in every particular.

Especially is this true of defective eyes—eyes needing glasses.

Even a different measurement in the two eyes is quite common. One eye may be perfect and the other short-sighted; or they may have different degrees of the same defect, or a different defect.

Is it any wonder then, you "have never found a glass you could see through?" Try us—we'll find you a glass if you need it; if not we'll tell you so.
